1. When should I replace the blades of my Philips OneBlade?

If you are wondering when should you replace the blades of your Philips OneBlade, find out your answer here.

Replacement indicator for OneBlade blades
Like any other blade, the blades of your OneBlade will become blunt over time, which can result in increased hair pulling and reduced cutting performance. Therefore, it is important to regularly replace these blades.

We recommend replacing the blades every four months. However, this can vary depending on usage and hair type. If you have very thick hair or if you use the OneBlade very frequently, the blades may need to be replaced earlier than four months. If you are a light user, then the blades can last much longer.

The OneBlade is equipped with a blade-wear indicator. This means that with use you will see a green patch develop on your blade. This patch is also indicated by arrows on the side. Once this patch is completely green, it is a signal for you to get a new blade.

2. Can I use my Philips OneBlade on my body?

If you want to know whether you can use your Philips OneBlade to shave and trim your body hair, please find the answer here.

Using Philips OneBlade on the body

You can use the body blade and body combs of your Philips OneBlade to shave and trim your body hair. These attachments come with all OneBlade Face & Body models.
If you have a face only model of OneBlade, then you can also buy the face & body kit separately from our website. The body kit is compatible with all OneBlade models, including OneBlade Pro and OneBlade Norelco.
